ARTS, CULTURE & TRAVEL

Costuming: Why We Do It, Why It Matters

Shakespeare wrote that all the world is a stage, and indeed it is. From the words we say to how we dress and adorn ourselves we create images of how we want others to view us. We give extra thought and attention to costuming for special occasions, meaningful events and to create fantasy. This class will explore topics such as how we costume for rites of passage, holidays, religious traditions and entertainment.

I will also have fine examples of the different styles to share from my personal collection. Whether you are interested in starting your own collection or simply curious about the different styles of pottery, I will share how my collection was started and what to look for in authentic pieces.

They Wrote the Songs: The Men & Women Behind the Music of the Rock Era

We remember our favorite songs from the '60s and who sang them, but seldom can we identify who wrote the song -- or care! But there would have been no hit without the songwriter(s). A surprising number of hits came from the same handful of writers, solos and teams. "Words & music by" is an unexplored area of '60s music. We'll explore it! Optional reading: Always Magic in the Air, by Ken Emerson (New York: Penguin Viking Books, 2005).

They Wrote the Songs, Part 2

Still more of the legendary songwriters who wrote the music we listened to in the 1960s. Not a repeat of 'They Wrote the Songs. The 1960's Folk Music Revival in Four Acts

The history of this revival illustrated by using 4 musical acts (approximately) to explain aspects of what Dave Van Ronk called "The Great Folk Scare". The Kingston Trio (and others) : making folk music safe. Dave Van Ronk (and Joan Baez): the revenge of the "pure" folksingers. Bob Dylan: the rise of the singer/songwriters. Artist(s) to be named later: the folk revival evolves.

The Empire Strikes Back: The British Invasion of American Music in the 1960s

The Beatles took America by storm in 1964, and opened the door for a host of other British musical acts. For the rest of the decade the Brits ruled the charts. Some were one-hit wonders; others like the Rolling Stones, endured. Join me as we take a walk through a seminal rock era. We will listen to a lot of golden oldies and discuss the different acts and their musical influence.

Greek Mythology in the Visual Arts

This course will explore Greek Mythology and how, through the centuries, it has helped artists to communicate love, anger, loyalty, danger, justice and injustice. The Greeks did not worship ugly idols but created instead a constellation of beautiful radiant gods. We will discuss the most salient myths and legends of the Greek lore over the first three meetings. At the last meeting we will tour the Kimbell Art Museum and view those art works in the permanent collection which use Greek mythology as a medium and what contemporary theme they were trying to communicate.

You will meet my friends and learn about the joys of volunteering in another culture. Ethiopia: 13 Months of Sunshine

Thirteen months of sunshine is not the only thing that sets Ethiopia apart from other African countries. Invaded by several European powers, Ethiopia was never colonized. Ethiopia's prehistory includes Ardi and Lucy walking in Rift Valley millions of years ago and Homo sapiens migrations over Bab-al-Mandab Strait into Asia seventy thousand years ago. More recent history includes (perhaps) Queen of Sheba, Ark of Covenant, Prestar John. and (definitely) the Solomonic Dynasty/Ethiopian Empire (1270-1974), Lalibela rock-hewn churches, Beta Israel and the Blue Nile. These and more examples of Ethiopian political, cultural and ecological diversity will be covered.

The Rose Parade - An Insider's View of the Annual New Year's Day Parade

We see the beautiful floats on New Year's morning but we seldom see the little things that get them to this point; nor some of the support activities of that day. Having spend many years living in Pasadena and being friends with many "white suitors" you develop a real awareness of this annual event. So we will look aat the parade route, the history (a small portion) and what goes into building and driving these floats.

Italy: Tips for Your First (or Second) Trip

Italy is a fascinating country filled with history, art, scenery, and culture. Oh, and the food and wine aren't bad either! With all it has to offer, Italy is very welcoming to the U.S. tourist. This class is designed for the first (or second) time visitor to Italy. It provides information on the history and special attributes of Italian culture, and tips on making the most of your visit there, all from the experience of a Texan with sixteen trips to the country since 2011 (and two more planned in 2022.)

1950's American Music: From Big Band to Rock & Roll

Are you curious about the music your parents listened to? It wasn't just Vienna waltzes and Benny Goodman. The Fifties was a decade that saw the end of the Big Band sound and the beginnings of rock 'n' roll. It also had R&B, doo-wop, the crooners, and other styles barely remembered today. Come take a sentimental journey through the last innocent era of music.

Americana Music: The Further Evolution of the Folk Music Revival

Americana music's recognition as a genre is fairly recent but its roots are as old as blues, folk, and country music forms. This course will be a brief overview and a sample of some of my own favorites. The genre may also be called American Roots music and is also embraced by artists from Canada (Colter Wall) and Great Britain (Mumford and Sons).

Ghost Riders: The Daring Mission to Rescue the World's Most Priceless Horses

As the Red Army closed in on the Third Reich in World War II, a German colonel sent an unusual report to an American intelligence officer about a POW camp that was soon to be overrun by the advancing Soviets. Locked up there, the report said, were over 1,000 horses including the entire herd of white Lipizzaner's from Vienna's famous riding school. The horses were worth millions but if the starving Russians got to them first they would slaughter the horses for food. The Americans planned an audacious mission to kidnap and save the horses in a mission dubbed "Operation Cowboy."

Controversy over the name and route of the Chisholm Trail has persisted over time; and the popularity of late nineteenth-century Wild West shows, dime novels, and twentieth-century radio, movie, and television western drama has propelled the bygone era of the cattle trail into myth. How Disease Affected the Military During the American Revolution

Before the flu pandemic of 1918 and the Coronavirus of 2020, there was the smallpox outbreak of 1775-1777. This presentation will explore the various diseases that affected the American and British armies. We will examine how diseases decided the outcome of some battles and explore some early uses of biological warfare. This lecture explores Russia's historical involvement in both Afghanistan and Ukraine. Great Britain and Russia have long disputed the strategic importance of Afghanistan. Great British viewed India as a prized possession and Afghanistan stood between that jewel and Russia. Russia saw Afghanistan as a buffer state needed to protect its flank against encroachment of the West and China. August 1991 marked the independence of Ukraine -Russia's "breadbasket". Cultural and political differences sowed the seeds of conflict in both Afghanistan and Ukraine from the 19th century to the present.

Fractious Times: Understanding Freedom of Expression in the 21st Century

Why is Washington so dysfunctional? We will review our history and current events to understand how we have coped with freedom of expression when faced with threats of Fascism and Communism, issues of Racism in America, and the polarization of American Identity Politics. We will consider the many divisive issues that continue to make it more difficult for us to live together peacefully and compete in a friendly and helpful manner in our democratic society.

Charles Goodnight, Oliver Loving, and the Goodnight-Loving Trail

The Goodnight-Loving Trail, also known as the Goodnight Trail or the Loving Trail, was one of several routes used to drive herds of wild Texas cattle from Texas to more viable markets during the latter half of the nineteenth century. Charles Goodnight and Oliver Loving certainly left their mark on the history of Texas and the American West, yet did not blaze the trail that carries their name. Like most topics related to the American West, the lines between legend, fiction, and reality have become blurred with the passage of time. What is the real story behind the legend of Charles Goodnight, Oliver Loving, and the Goodnight-Loving Trail?

The New London School Explosion of 1937

On March 18, 1937, a spark ignited a large pool of natural gas that had collected beneath the school building in New London, a small town in East Texas. The resulting explosion leveled the four-year-old structure and resulted in a death toll of more than three hundred—most of them children. It is the worst school disaster in the history of the United States.

The First 24 Hours of the American Revolution

Thousands of colonists turned out to oppose the British Army on April 19, 1775. Most of them had no military experience, yet they were willing to face the best trained army in the world. They saw themselves as patriots that were wronged by their mother country. On the other hand, the British saw these men as rebels committing treason to the government and threats to the peace. This presentation is a concise hour by hour account of what was happening during the first 24 hours of the American Revolution on both the American and British sides.

Game Changers: Military Decisions That Helped Win the American Revolution

In every war there is usually an event that is considered a turning point, or at the least very important. Most of the time the importance is not revealed until the end of the conflict. The victor will exclaim, "That is the reason we won" while the vanquished uses it as an excuse for losing. Sometimes the importance of the good or bad event is not discovered until many years later, when historians can look back "at the big picture". Such events occurred during the American Revolution. We will explore the impact, good or bad, that certain decisions had on events that influenced the eventual outcome of the war. There was not one event that led to the ultimate conclusion of the war. Rather, there are a combination of good and bad decisions that determined who won or lost.

They Called Her Reckless: A Horse Who Became the Pride of the Marines

She might not have been much to look at-- but besides being remembered for her love of peanut butter sandwiches, scrambled eggs, and beer--she is remembered as the greatest warhorse in American history. During the Korean War, Reckless proved fearless for over two years boldly marching on her own through the fiery gauntlet and being exposed to battlefield combat, explosions, and shrapnel. Reckless drug countless injured troops to safety and made hundreds of trips alone hauling ammunition to troops on the front lines. She was awarded two Purple Hearts and was promoted to staff sergeant before her retirement to Camp Pendleton.

Chris Van Allsburg's JUMANJI is a magical book for children and adults. What happens when Peter and Judy are left alone when their parents go to the opera? Universal Reconciliation: Will Jesus Ultimately Save All of Mankind?

We will explore (1) the history of this understanding which was the predominate view in Christianity for 500 years following the burial and resurrection of Christ, how it became the minority but extant view in the middle ages, its resurgence in the 1800s, and its recent explosion back on the scene; (2) God's judgment and justice; (3) God's nature; (4) hell; (5) the "what about" such as the unpardonable sin and the Lake of Fire which burns, as per most Bible translations, forever and ever; (6) mankind's role in all of this; (7) conditions for reconciliation of all to occur; and (8) who wins-- Yahweh or Satan?

The Book of Revelation: An Interpretation. Is it that time? What is the goal of our Creator in all of these terrible events? What is its major theme? There are lots of symbols such as a Lion, a Lamb, lampstands, a harlot, fine linen, and white horses, some of which can be understood, and some of which are a real puzzle. The timelines are interesting and challenging, but the real key to understanding the book seems to be its goal as set forth in chapter 5. Please read the book with this goal in mind prior to class.

Every major spiritual tradition - Hinduism, Buddhism, Judaism, Christianity and Islam - brings a special gift to the art of living a spiritual life. Each of them refracts the light of its own spiritual wisdom texts in particularly sharp, distinct ways," according to Joan Chittister in her book Welcome to the Wisdom of the World. In this class we will engage with the spiritual insights of whole other cultures as across the globe individuals and institutions have grappled with some of humankind's biggest, most profound questions. We will learn how each of these spiritual-religious traditions answers our questions, what each teaches is most important in life and perhaps with a sense of openness, we will broaden, even deepen our own personal understandings regarding life's great mysteries.

Ancient DNA Provides Clues to Who We Are and How We Got Here

Sequencing modern human DNA has been possible since the 1960s. Sequencing ancient DNA recovered from fossils found in Africa, Eurasia, Oceania and the Americas, which has been feasible for only 10 years, has already revealed details of prehistoric origins, migrations and matings of Homo species over last quarter-million years. In this course, we will review DNA related science and what it has revealed about our ancient ancestors. The course is designed for a lay audience with general knowledge of DNA and interest in ancient human migrations out of Africa into Eurasia, Oceania and the Americas.

The Electric Grid

After Snowmageddon every politician and talking head went on and on about the fragility of the Texas electric grid and pointed fingers every which way. Often, they had no idea about what they were talking about and how an electric grid works. This class will try to show you some fundamentals, without a lot of high-powered math, of how our electric grid in Texas is supposed to work and how it can be disrupted, usually only very temporarily and in small areas.

Albert Einstein and the Revolution in Physics, 1900 to 1930

The early part of the 20th century was a time of revolutionary change in physics. The atomic theory was approaching full acceptance. A new theory, quantum mechanics, drastically changed our concept of how physics works at the atomic and molecular scale. Special relativity changed our concept of space and time, and general relativity changed our concept of gravity and the large-scale structure of the universe. Albert Einstein was involved in all these things and was the leader in the development of special and general relativity. This course will discuss his life and science. The science portion of the class will be directed at lay people and presented in a non-mathematical way. Nevertheless, it will require a willingness to think hard about some strange and non-intuitive concepts.

How Airplanes Fly For the Airline Passenger

This course is aimed at the non-pilot, typical airline passenger who is curious about how an airplane works. How does the wing generate lift, how does the engine produce thrust, and how does the pilot control everything. We'll address safety concerns with the goal of making students feel secure during all phases of flight, even when things don't seem "normal". We'll lightly touch on all types of aircraft, then limit remainder of discussion to airline type airplanes.

Geochronology: How Paleontologists and Archeologists Date the Objects They Find in the Field

This lecture will discuss the techniques that paleontologists and archeologists use to date objects that they find in the field. Most people have some awareness of carbon 14 dating and uranium series dating, but they are unaware of the refinements that have been made to make these techniques reliable. We will discuss these techniques and some of the many other techniques that are used in geochronology. In early versions of Hank Fitzhugh's Ancient DNA class, a version of this lecture was presented as the first session of Hank's class, so for some Silver Frogs, this lecture will be largely repetitive. This lecture is intended to function as an introduction to the lecture entitled "The Fossil Record of Human Evolution: A Very Brief Survey".

The Fossil Record of Human Evolution: A Very Brief Survey

Paleontologists try to understand human evolution based on bones, fossils, and artifacts that they find in the field. In recent times, this has been supplemented with knowledge gained from DNA. This lecture will give a very brief review of what they have learned. The topic is open to a lot of controversy, even among paleontologists. The lecture titled "Geochronology: How Paleontologists and Archeologists Date the Objects They Find in the Field" is intended to be taken together with this lecture, but it is possible for either lecture to stand on its own.

Small Modular Reactors, the Return of Nuclear Power?

Nuclear energy expanded greatly in the 1970s and 1980s, but has been fading ever since as few new plants have been built and older plants are retired. As a non-carbon generating and 24/7 reliable electricity source new designs are proposed to solve many of the problems and objections to the older designs and retain this valuable electric power source. One popular solution are so-called Small Modular Reactors. This class shows how they work and how they are supposed to be better than older designs.
